The Flower of Life is a name for a geometrical figure composed of seven or more evenly-spaced, overlapping circles. This figure, used as a decorative motif since ancient times, forms a flower-like pattern with the symmetrical structure of a hexagon.

The perfect form, proportion, and harmony of the Flower of Life, also known as Life's Flower, has been known to philosophers, architects, and artists around the world since ancient times.

This symbol called the "Flower of Life" or "life's flower" consists of 19 overlapping and interconnected circles. It always consists of 19 circles – no more and no less.

The Flower of Life originates in one circle and all other circles are built up around that. That means you begin by drawing one circle and then continue drawing all the other circles around it. This symbol of the Flower of Life belongs to Sacred Geometry which believes that all life is part of a divine, geometric plan. All structures known to us are following this plan. Evidently, the Flower of Life is a very important geometric symbol.
