ONE OF A KIND

ENZO FERRARI'S

On 18 February 2024, the new “Ferrari One of a Kind” exhibition at the Museo Enzo Ferrari in Modena was officially inaugurated. The display celebrates the craftsmanship behind each unique masterpiece that emerges from the Ferrari factory gates thanks to the exclusive personalisation programme offered by the company’s three Tailor Made centres in Maranello, New York and Shanghai. Now open to the public, the exhibition reveals the exclusivity of these one-of-a-kind cars, each expressing the personality, taste and desires of individual Ferrari owners.

“Ferrari One Of a Kind” takes visitors on a unique journey. Not only does it showcase some extraordinary cars, many of which have never been seen by the public before, but it also offers an immersive introduction to the personalisation programmes enjoyed exclusively by Ferrari clients. At the very heart of the exhibition is an interactive wall that allows visitors physical contact with the materials, fabrics, colours and vast array of options provided by the Ferrari Styling Centre, enabling clients to effortlessly create their dream car.

Many private one-off cars are on display, such as:

Ferrari 812 Competizione Tailor Made. This unique vehicle (which features on the exhibition poster) is an embodiment of the clean-slate approach taken by Ferrari's Chief Design Officer, Flavio Manzoni. The car on display was the first in a limited edition special series of just 999 examples, and was auctioned at a Ferrari benefit gala in New York on 17 October 2023.

Ferrari Daytona SP3 Carbon Look. This, the second model in the Icona limited-series line, pays homage to the sports-prototypes that made motorsport history. This example is finished in an extraordinary, natural-finish ruby red transitional carbon-fibre which gives exceptional chromatic reflections depending on the light.

Ferrari 166 MM. This extraordinarily elegant car is one of the forerunners of Ferrari's personalised road cars. Built in 1948 and bodied by Carrozzeria Touring, every last detail has been beautifully crafted to reflect the taste of its owner, Gianni Agnelli. The unusual dual-tone blue and green paintwork recalls the family's connections with the Italian royal house, Casa Savoia.

The Ferrari Monza SP1. Built in 2018, this is the first example of the Icona limited-edition special series inspired by the great Ferraris of the past. Icona reinterprets classic timeless style with a modern aesthetic, adding contemporary high performance, high-tech elements in perfect harmony.

In an unprecedented feat that has sent ripples through the cycling world, Eritrean cyclist Biniam Girmay has once again proven his mettle by becoming the first Black cyclist to win a stage in the 101st Tour de France. This historic achievement places Girmay not only at the pinnacle of his career but also in the records of sports history as a trailblazer who has shattered barriers and redefined the possibilities for African athletes in professional cycling.

SPOTLIGHT ON Biniam Girmay

Girmay, who rides for the UCI WorldTeam Intermarché-Wanty-Gobert Matériaux, has steadily ascended to prominence, building on an illustrious career marked by a series of groundbreaking accomplishments. His victory at the 101st Giro d'Italia, where he became the first Black African cyclist to win a stage in a Grand Tour, served as a precursor to his Tour de France triumph, heralding the arrival of a new era for African cyclists on the world stage.

Girmay's journey from Asmara to the elite ranks of European cycling is a testament to his relentless determination, resilience, and extraordinary talent. His successes have not only inspired a new generation of cyclists from Africa but have also illuminated the continent's burgeoning talent pool, challenging long-standing perceptions in a sport traditionally dominated by European and North American athletes.

As Girmay continues to break new ground, he stands as a symbol of hope and a beacon of change, his victories echoing far beyond the cycling circuits and into the global sports narrative.

"MADE IN THUNDER" MASERATI USHERS IN THEIR ELECTRIC ERA.

In a show full of energy and immersed in an atmosphere that evokes transformation, innovative momentum, ingenuity, creative inspiration, and a whole new experience that anticipates an exciting new journey into the future, Maserati staged “Made in Thunder”, an overture to the Folgore, the new 100% electric chapter of the House of the Trident.

The stage was taken over by the world premiere of the car taking a leading role in Maserati's electric era, with the same disruptive force as thunder: GranCabrio Folgore, the 100% made in Modena and 100% full electric convertible.

*Top - Exclusive Liquid Rose Gold Colour
Bottom - Titan Grey Soft Top and Sophisticated Denim*

Elegant, attractive, with a sporty and adventurous character, a harmonious and gritty synthesis of all that is innovation, without sacrificing the pleasure of a car with the utmost comfort and distinctive craftsmanship, GranCabrio Folgore is the first 100% electric convertible in the luxury segment and the fastest on the market.

After the GranTurismo Folgore, the brand's first fully electrified icon, and the Grecale Folgore, the first 100% electric SUV in the Trident's history, the new open-top Maserati completes the Modena-based company's current full-electric offering.

Maserati is once again a pioneer and forerunner in the automotive world, where electrification now sets the boundaries and rules, interpreted and set out by the Italian luxury brand with its timeless creations that can reconcile the brand's powerful DNA according to new, contemporary stylistic, technological and engineering inspirations.

The show continued with speeches from Klaus Busse and Davide Grasso. The Maserati Head of Design led the audience on a voyage of discovery of the beauty and spirit of the GranCabrio Folgore.

Alongside a group of representatives from the Maserati Family, Maserati's Chief Executive Officer then took the reins of the show for the final farewell, thanking the guests for coming and bearing witness to Maserati's new electric future. Recalling how the thunderous, harmonious encounter and clash between art and science has for centuries generated and inspired the search for excellence inherent in the Italian DNA, and how the same impetus has always featured in Maserati's work and spirit.

Davide Grasso noted that there could be no Maserati without Italy, even in the new electric chapter of the brand's history, as he officially welcomed in the new era.

Folgore is the voice of Maserati's future, a thunder that infuses new energy and ignites the future of the brand.
